PROJECTS

JustChill

Using React, I developed a dynamic Lofi music player. Leveraging React's component-based structure, I implemented multiple audio channels, enabling users to seamlessly blend various playlists. The project also features customizable themes for a visually immersive experience, achieved through a combination of state management and responsive design techniques.

GameRadar Hub

Utilizing ReactJS and Redux, I crafted a responsive website that interfaces with a live API to provide real-time information on upcoming games, new releases, and popular titles. The project seamlessly integrates with the API to fetch and display game details, employing Redux for state management. The website offers a user-friendly experience, allowing enthusiasts to explore, search, and discover comprehensive information about their favorite games.

Cookie Clicker Bot

A bot application to automate gameplay in the popular online game "Cookie Clicker" using Python scripting, Selenium drive, and web scraping techniques. Contributed in the frontend development part and link with python to reflect score, accessory and other data in real-time on the game website.
